

OUTER FORTIFICATIONS OF GALICIAN Fortress IN HANDS OF RUSSIANS

CREDENCE GIVEN TO REPORTS REACHING LONDON THAT AUSTRIANS HAVE SURRENDERED.

TEUTONS FAIL TO GAIN

News From Eastern Front Indicates That German Advance Is Checked—Situation Will Aid Allied Armies in West.

London, March 18.—The outer forts of Przemyśl, toward which a portion of the Austrian army in an effort to bring about the relief of the besieged fortress, have at last fallen before the Russians, according to unofficial reports reaching London. Although confirmation is lacking, British newspapers this morning apparently are easier to regard the report as not improbable. They refer to the fact that news dispatches received in Petrograd yesterday said the surrender of this stronghold was but a matter of a few days.

True or untrue, this is about the only overnight news from the eastern front although there has been much speculation concerning the engagement on the northern frontier of East Prussia and referred to in wireless messages from Berlin. Russian attacks on Tauraggen and Langargen. The latter place is just within the border of East Prussia, not far from the important German frontier of Pilsen and the presence of Russian troops at this point may mean a new invasion.

Nowhere in the eastern arena of the fighting, according to the opinion of British observers, has the German forces appear to be making progress except between Stanislaw and Kalouza, to the north of Bukovina, where they are pushing forward in an attempt to turn the Russian left flank.

British military experts think that the position of the German armies in the east preclude the transfer of any troops to the western front. The German plan of dealing Russia a crushing blow before attempting a much-discussed spring advance in the west, has failed. Five out of six of the new German army headquarters have been engaged on and beyond the frontier of East Prussia, a fact which British observers think is difficult for Germany to meet the demands likely to be imposed on her in the west.

Full import of the British victory at Neuve Chapelle is only now beginning to be grasped by the public. It has definitely confirmed both troops and civilians as confident that the German line can be broken if the allies care to pay the price. Several thousand wounded men from this battle had already been brought in England. Five hundred have been brought to Brighton during the twenty-four hours ended last evening.

The press today again cautions the people that the taking of the Dardanelles is like a war of attrition, which the allies must pay the price just as they have done at Neuve Chapelle.

Official reports indicate that relations between Italy and Austria are becoming more unsettled. A Paris dispatch says that Germans at a resort in the Italian Riviera have been notified to leave the country at once. The Italian government has been notified to leave the country at once. The Italian government has been notified to leave the country at once.

Between the Italian government and Prince Von Buelow, in behalf of Austria and Germany, is now in doubt, the assertion having been made that Emperor Franz Joseph has virtually broken them up.

Village a Heap of Ruins. London, March 18.—The village of Neuve Chapelle, converted into a shambles by bombardment of the British, is now a heap of ruins thickly strewn with bodies, according to the description of the British operations at Neuve Chapelle, given by an "eye witness" and given out today by the press bureau.

Although the Germans were inferior to their antagonists both in numbers and artillery, the eye witness declares they offered heroic resistance, using machine guns effectively. At the end of March 10 the bodies of 2,000 German soldiers had been found in sections south of the village. In front of one British battalion east of the village, the statement asserts, 300 more were counted, which did not include the large number buried in the ruins of the village.

During the night a curious device of the enemy was discovered by a British patrol. The men came upon a dummy figure stuck in the ground in front of German trenches. Upon being moved, the figure exploded and one of the British soldiers was injured.

Hot Artillery Fire. Prisoners who have been all through the war declare they never have experienced such a bombardment as that which preceded the assault on Neuve Chapelle. One wounded Russian officer declared indignantly: "You do not fight; you murder. My regiment never had a chance from the first. Nothing could live under such fire." The resentment of prisoners against the British artillery has been frequently expressed.

In spite of their exhaustion the aspect of the prisoners spoke highly of German discipline. Their persons were extraordinarily clean and most of them were fresh shaven. They were unanimously optimistic, believing they would soon finish the Russians and that they then would crush France and Greece.

One officer stated that three German princes, including Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern, were serving in one of the battalions at Neuve Chapelle. This prisoner expressed the belief that all the German princes had been killed in conclusion the eye witness says he believes the Germans lost 15,000 men at Neuve Chapelle.

Gives Statement. Paris, March 18.—Maurice Briand, former premier of France, and now minister of justice and vice president of the cabinet, explained today to the correspondent of the Associated Press why he and other cabinet ministers have been declining to grant interviews concerning the position of France in the present war.

"We rely upon the justice of our cause," the minister said, "which we

War News Summary.

The renewal of heavy fighting on both the western and eastern fronts during the past fortnight apparently is being followed by another lull. Today's official reports speak of no important engagements. The German government announced its intention of destroying three Russian villages for every German village burned.

Although fighting is still under way in Belgium, Champagne and the Argonne, the French and German statement indicate that the activity yesterday was limited principally to the artillery.

think is amply proven by material facts, not perceptible of misconception. France consequently does not care to lower herself by engaging in any sort of propaganda. We have passed the hour of words; it is cannon that plead for us now the cause of right, fidelity to engagement, and resistance to aggression. As for our friends abroad, they are in a position to understand the fact. If they do not take account of what is going on, so much the more unfortunate for them.

France Wanted Peace. "The material facts are, first, France made every possible effort to maintain peace; this has been demonstrated by the diplomatic documents issued by the French government. France was not first to take measures for mobilization and she even withdrew her covering troops for a distance of six miles from her own frontier, to avoid any irrefragable incidents.

"In this she took the risk of imprudence. At the same time she affirmed her attachment to peace and her desire to preserve it."

Third, Germany, not France, invaded Belgium, and there again is a positive fact sufficiently eloquent. The fact which offers a solid foundation upon which the judgment of neutral countries may be based.

WHERE VIGOROUS NEW OFFENSIVE BY THE ALLIES MAY BRING HARD FIGHTING ON THE WESTERN FRONT

USE HUGE BONFIRES TO FIGHT RUSSIANS

German Strategists Set Fire to Forests During Mazurian Lake Campaign.

London, March 18.—How the Germans employed both fire and water to destroy the Russians in the campaign of the Mazurian lake district in East Prussia, is related in a communication received by the Westminster Gazette from Gothenburg.

"The German strategists counted not only on water and mire, but even fire," the correspondent at Gothenburg declares. "Their engineers have for many years been equipped with a peculiar kind of armor for excavating the trunk of soft trees, such as the Mazurian fir. When the Russian army first advanced into East Prussia, the German engineers had already excavated a number of trees. When Russian troops reached the Mazurian district, German engineers at once opened the canal, drawing the invading troops like flies. Some Russians reached the forest, but of course they had no idea that many trees had been charged with gasoline. It was an easy task for the German artillery to match to this bonfire and burn out the Russian regiment they entrapped."

TELLS OF MASSACRE OF BRITISH TROOPS BY SENUSSI TRIBES

German Merchant Returning from Egypt Declares British Force of Two Thousand Wiped Out by Natives.

Berlin, wireless via Sayville, March 18.—German merchant recently returned from Egypt, is authority for the declaration that the whole of the Sudan, including Khartoum, and also parts of Arabia, are in possession of the Dirishies. The statements of this traveler were published in the Voestische Zeitung. He describes engagements near Fashoda last December in which German soldiers and British army and a number of other officers, together with almost 2,000 men, lost their lives.

He relates a story of the alleged uprising of the Dirishies in November. He declares they destroyed an Australian camp in the pyramids on November 19, killing 200 Australian soldiers and capturing guns and provisions. Later a large force, not less than 30,000, overpowered the entire province of Fashoda and destroyed all railroads, including the Cairo-Assuan line. December 17 they destroyed the Alexander-Cairo railroad near Damhar.

Thousands of tribesmen responded to the appeal of the Dirishies and on December 19, 40,000 of them marched in the direction of Fashoda, on the White Nile, where General Hawley opposed them with 6,000 troops. Of the men under Hawley all the native soldiers died, and the Dirishies leaving him with only 2,000 men. Most of this contingent were killed and General Hawley and all his officers fell. The commander of the British force had all his prisoners recaptured. The native chief joined the Dirishies, when on Jan. 1 they took possession of an important military post on Nassar, in the district of Senhar.

This merchant declares further that Dirishies destroyed all telegraph lines in lower Egypt. The Dirishies had all of the Sudan has been allowed to leak out.

Further than this statement, officials in all quarters preserved the strictest silence regarding the situation as one of delicacy. State department officials, however, have admitted that since beginning of negotiations between Japan and China over the proposed railway from Vladivostok to Hankow, the United States has been endeavoring to influence Japan to ameliorate her demands and to prevent any infringement of the right of the United States.

The senate passed the Fairchild bill giving the governor larger powers in the organization of the state militia, especially in the selection of making it conform with the system adopted by the regular army.

In the House of Commons also the present session has devoted at least a small portion of its time to considering the needs of its stomach. It has re-elected Colonel Amelius Lockwood chairman of the House Committee, which performs the arduous task of superintending the catering, tasting the wines, and purchasing the silver, glass and napery, for the parliamentary restaurant.

Colonel Lockwood has been chairman of this committee for nearly twenty years, and his annual report is always received by the House as something of an institution. During the past year, says the Colonel's report, his department was open on 142 working days, and served 23,000 luncheons, 4,000 dinners, 75,000 teas and 4,500 meals at the bar, with a net loss for the year of about $12,000.

DELAY SMYRNA ATTACK

Allies Suspend Naval Operations Against Asiatic Port, Giving Turks a Chance to Repair Damages.

Milan, via Paris, March 18.—Prudence will govern the efforts of the admirals of the allied fleet to force a passage of the Dardanelles according to a special correspondent of the Corriere della Sera, who gives the captain of the French hospital ship Canada as authority for the statement. At least another month will be spent in efforts to silence the Turkish fortifications, especially those guarding the narrows of Chanak Kalesi.

The operations against Smyrna, the correspondent declares, have a double object. The first is said to have been the transfer of the 13th Turkish army corps which was preparing to leave for the Dardanelles, and the second to cut the communications of the army which was sent against Egypt.

Suspend Smyrna Attack. Paris, March 18.—The correspondent at Athens of the Havas Agency, in a dispatch dated March 17, says naval operations of the allies at Smyrna, Asiatic Turkey, have been temporarily suspended, and the Turks are profiting by this respite to repair the damage to their batteries and fortifications. They are pursuing the same course also at the Dardanelles on either shore of the sea of Marmora.

There are about 130,000 Turkish troops west of Constantinople, according to latest information reaching Athens, the correspondent continues. Forty thousand more are on the Gallipoli Peninsula, 20,000 in European Turkey and the rest on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles. It is reported here that the Turks are placing guns on the Gallipoli heights, and are Constantine on both the European and Asiatic side of the Bosphorus.

ALBANIA OF GREAT INTEREST IN WAR

People of Historic Country Are Peculiar Lot, Says Damon in Paper Prepared.

The invasion of Serbia a few days ago by certain Albanian troops brings that misunderstood little country back upon the map of present-day human interest. Albanian temper have been sowing for four hundred years. The people of Albania have been oppressed by the Ottomans, and yet, they have been loath to fight these masters lest they fall booty to the ambitions of Italy, Austria or Serbia. The Albanian feels he has no cause to love or trust his neighbors. His peculiarities and his problems are pitifully explained to Americans by Theron J. Damon in a paper prepared for the National Geographic Society.

"The Albanian," the writer begins, "is a European; two thousand years and more he has lived where he now lives—in the fastness of Epirus and Illyria, across the Adriatic from Italy; heel early in the nineteenth century the Albanians mingled with their southern neighbors, the Greeks, and were the backbone of the struggle for Greek independence. During the 125 years previous to the discovery of America, the proud republic of Venice held a benevolent supremacy over the Albanian coast towns, and thus century retained the day of Turkish domination. In 1878, the Turbans began their overlordship—four centuries of chicanery, broken faith, and cruelty."

Following the last successful war of the Balkan lands with the Ottoman, Albania received independent statehood. Yet the Albanians have been ill-trained for the task of making a nation. Education is their great need, according to Mr. Damon, who points out that the waves and impulses of progress have failed to reach the Albanian through all his history. For a number of years, he continues, all classes of the people—Moslems and Christian alike—have had a passionate desire for national education, but, as long as he ruled, the Turk fought this desire with all the means of a despot.

Today the Albanian is the most picturesque personality in Europe, the writer says. He still practices the vendetta, and now, as in the past, one in five of the male mountaineers falls a sacrifice to the blood feud. To strike a person, even inadvertently, is a matter for blood revenge. If the offender himself is not killed, one of his relatives must be the victim, and thus endless chain is begun. The vendetta may be finally bought or "called off," Mr. Damon says, according to provisions of an intricate, unwritten Albanian code. A strong national consciousness has awakened among these people as among all of the Balkan peoples, and the Albanian dreads the future, Mr. Damon concludes, because he fears that, next to the blood feud, the dividing his lands as the vultures apportion among themselves the body of the third-weakened desert victim. Austria may come from the north or Italy from across the water, or an European conference might decide to bestow the Albanians among their neighbors, Montenegro, Serbia and Greece.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor:
It seems to be the fashion to take a crack at our state university for its extravagance and political activity and at the same time to decry the efficiency and poor support given our country schools.

Rock county has a problem of its own. Let us take a survey of the situation. We have a county board of education of five members, who receive four dollars per day when in session, or on duties of supervision. An appropriation of five hundred dollars was put in the tax roll for their support this year, and to tell the truth all we can find they have accomplished thus far is to stir up several little neighborhood rows, and they haven't voted as a unit to do that.

We also have a county superintendent of schools, with a force of assistants. For the maintenance of this office this year the county board of education call for five thousand five hundred dollars. Our county superintendent receives eighteen hundred dollars per year, (rather a tidy sum) and his traveling expenses. He is the highest paid county superintendent in the state, he has an assistant and also a clerk with lesser salaries.

Mr. Boag, of Beloit, the present president of the county board of education, (a warm supporter to the county superintendent, who has held office, to these many years) refuses to accept a renomination for the board and in a recent article in your columns says "Here in Rock county it is a fact that our rural schools are below the average of the state." How can he support the present incumbent if he believes what he writes, but he is in a position to know. Rock county's country schools are presided over to a large extent by young girls, who are earnestly endeavoring to make a good record and with earnest, helpful, advice and supervision, there should be no reason for such criticism as Mr. Boag writes. Respectfully yours,

MILTON J. MORRIS.

BALTIMORE CLAMORS FOR LEAGUE PENNANT

Pitchers Stack up Favorably With Any in the Outlaw League, Bar None—Infield Is Good.

Baltimore, March 18.—Baltimore is looking for her Federals to show the best of Jim Gilmore's teams something this season. They finished well up in the race last year and now the fans are clamoring for a pennant winner. And on paper it seems they stand a very good chance of having their clamoring satisfied. Otto Knabe's crew is looking mighty sweet.

Horseshoeing

If your horse is lame or his feet are sore let me shoe him and see how much better he will go. Every foot is paired in the proper way by an expert. I make a specialty of horseshoeing and can do it better. Your money returned if your horse don't go better.

Dan Leary

its own in the coming pennant fight unless he can overtake it. Otto Knabe is the pivot of the works at second, and he has an able lieutenant in the inimitable Minkley Doolan at his right. The pair has stood the acid test time and again. The old Philadelphia days and there isn't a team in any league with the possible exception of Evers and Maravilla, that has anything on them.

Strong at First.

Big Harry Swancina on first showed what he was worth last season. He is a fast, but withal steady, man on the first corner and can pick the ball with steadiness. Jimmy Walsh, who played third bag last season, may have to battle to retain his berth as a regular. Guy Zinn is back on the job, besides Kirkpatrick, and either can be expected to put up a battle. Zinn, it will be remembered, broke his leg early in the season, while training, and was out all year. He was couched a nifty, baseman when he came to the Feds from the International League. The Diamond Backs look awfully good in the infield.

A Steady Staff.

Knabe has a steady pitching staff, rather than a flashy one. Chief Bender is going to add a lot of strength to the corps despite vociferous outbursts from Dan Johnson that the old chief is through. Last season was the best the Indian ever had, and if he is through, then there are a lot of hurlers holding down berths in the other two leagues who would do well to get into a like condition. Any man that can win 17 and lose only 3 games in the American League looks pretty good. Backing up the Chief are Wilhelm, Sages, Quinn, Bailey, Smith and Young. The first three are well known; all were with the Club last season and are steady rather than brilliant.

Smith flopped around so much between Baltimore and Montreal last season that he is rather an unknown quantity. Bailey and Conley did good work last season, especially towards the latter part. Young is at yet unproven.

The veteran Jacklitch will, it is presumed, bear the brunt of the catching as he did last season. He had an able understudy in Russell. Slugging Fielders.

"Hack" Simmons and Johnny Duncan are a pair of heavy hitting outfielders, besides being fair fielders. Myer will have one patch, probably although it is possible Knabe may shift Kirkpatrick to the outfield.

The Feds are not going to have any opposition here this season and will have the solid support of the team. Jack Dunn took his International Birds and went to Richmond. Baltimore believes it is a major league town and the Feds are the nearest thing to a major league team it has since the days of the famous old Orioles.

Solid support is going to do a lot in keeping the players pepped up. Anyway Baltimore is pretty well satisfied with the way things are shaping up.

FARRELL MAY CHANGE MIND ABOUT THE FEDS

If Frank Farrell intends to back a Fed club in New York it is because he feels he was forced out, as he was not strong for the Feds around Christmas. At that time he said that he had it from both Hal Chase and Russ Ford that Benny Kauff could not hit any better than 240 against American league pitching and ridiculed the Feds' major league pretensions. "The tip off on the Feds is McKetchnie," Farrell said at the time. "He was a 300 hitter in the Feds and with my team he couldn't hit 150."

Manager McCredie of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league has prepared a training schedule that calls for only two meals a day for his players. The Feds certainly have a lot to answer for.

Pat Moran is lining up his regular Phillies like this: Luderus, Dugay, Bancroft and Byrne, infielders; Becker, Raskert and Cravath, outfielders. Niehoff is playing second for the Yankees and Stock at third. Galia should prove a valuable addition to Washington, as during his stay in the A. A. he acquired a spitball that proved very deceptive.

TROUNCE EDGERTON LAST NIGHT, 38 TO 16

JANESVILLE HIGHS EASILY WIN FIRST MILTON TOURNEY GAME OVER TOBACCO CITY TEAM.

STOUGHTON IS STRONG

Swedes Beat Milton 64 to 7 In Opening Game at Meet Yesterday.

—Review of First Day of Meet.

Janesville highs, true to form, played a whirlwind game at the Milton tournament last evening at 7:30 when they trounced Edgerton 38 to 16 in a fast game. Although not forced to play to the best of their ability, the club displayed a well-balanced team and their goal was never in danger.

Weirick played a great game for the little experience he has had, and scored eight times. Stickney took life easy and scored four goals. Janesville only played in streaks. In the first half they ran the score to 24 to 6, this counting coming rather easily. Edgerton lost its star man in Ogden last week, and were crippled.

Ran, Stewart and Dearborn played great floor games. Jones and Lee entered the game in the last ten minutes and showed up well. Both teams appeared on the floor and started the contest wearing gray suits and gray trunks. Janesville asked for time out in the middle of the half, to change their shirts. They put on new white shirts.

Games Today.

It was not definitely known who Janesville plays this afternoon until Stickney made a second drawing. The tourney is not run as the state meet is, and Janesville was to have played either Neillville or Hartland this afternoon. As Stoughton is considered strong with Janesville, these teams will probably meet tonight for the tourney shield, which is a large 16-inch shield with a walnut background and a sterling silver plate. Stoughton and Hartland are the favorites for Neillville this afternoon, or the team that Janesville does not play.

Two special cars carried the Janesville delegation of rooters to the final game. The delegation consisted of three hundred students, alumni and others made up the delegation that left Janesville at 4:40. Members of the faculty accompanied the crowd to keep order and prevent any disorders that are contrary to the rules of the school. The crowd and team will return after the final game, probably at ten o'clock, on a special train that has been arranged for the benefit of students and the Milwaukee road.

The summary of the Janesville-Edgerton game follows:

Janesville—Weirick 1; Capt. Stickney 2; Stewart 1; Dearborn 1; Jones, c; Stewart and Lee, lg; Dearborn, rg; Kaivelage, sub.

Edgerton—McIntosh, lg; Williams, rf; Clarke, c; Capt. Hitchcock, lg; Whitford, rg; Thompson and Sweeney subs.

Field Goals—Weirick 3, Stickney 4, Stewart 5, McIntosh 3, Williams 1, Clarke 1, Whitford 1.

Free Throws—Stickney 4 out of 6, Stewart 2 out of 3 attempts; McIntosh missed one; Williams, 2 out of 6 attempts.

Fouls Called—Weirick 1 class B; Stickney 2, Stewart 1, Dearborn 3, Lee 2, McIntosh 1, Clarke 1, Whitford 4.

Referee—Davis, Milton College.

Time of Halves—20 minutes.

Scorer—Thorngate.

Time—West.

The same officials acted throughout the day's games.

Stoughton, 64; Milton, 7.

Stoughton literally swamped the Milton five in the opening game of the tournament yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the final score being 64 to 7. Stoughton always held the lead, and the inexperience of the Milton team is what accounted for the Swedes' rolling up so high a score.

Jerdee and Sullivan starred with eleven goals apiece. The summary:

Milton—Waterman, lg; Curtis, rf; Randolph, c; Sayre, lg; Borden, rg; Crumb, c; Cooper, lg.

Stoughton—Olson and Overland, lg; Sullivan, rf; Jerdee, c; Chipman and Sundt, lg; Hanson, rg.

Goals—Waterman 1, Randolph 1, Olson 2, Sullivan 1, Jerdee 11, Hanson 2, Overland 2.

Free Throws—Curtis, 1; Randolph, 2 out of 4 trials; Sullivan, 4 out of 5 trials; Jerdee missed one.

The Hartland and Jefferson teams furnished a fast and exciting game at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, the former winning only in the final moments.

Jefferson held the lead for most of the game, and then the other side broke in favor of Hartland in the last three minutes. Murphy, for Hartland, and Stutz, for Jefferson, played fine ball.

The summary:

Hartland—Murphy, lg; H. Gerbenaky, rf; Jungbluth, c; Polaski, lg; R. Gerbenaky, rg; Connolly, sub.

pool, rf; Stoppel, c; Gust, lg; Gerhardt, rg; Haugen and Slocumb, subs. Port Atkinson—Jones, lg; Converse, rg; Lieberman, c; Dexheimer, lg; Myra, rg; Kortz and Lawke, subs.

Goals—Tragedorf 5, Waterpool 7, Stoppel 3, Jones 2, Lieberman 1, Dexheimer 1, Myra 1.

Free Throws—Waterpool, 1 out of 6 trials; Jones, 5 out of 11 trials.

KILBANE IS VICTOR OVER KID WILLIAMS; WHITE SCORES K. O.

Featherweight Champion Is Too Fast For Williams, Bantam Champ—Clabby Beats Ahearn.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Philadelphia, March 17.—By using his advantage of height and reach in a clever manner, John J. Kilbane, feather-weight champion of the world, defeated Kid Williams, holder of the bantam-weight title in a furious six-round contest at Olympia last night. Williams need feel no chagrin over the result of the bout. While suffering a handicap of weight, reach and height, he fought back gamely, frequently carrying the battle to Kilbane and taking every chance to turn defeat into victory.

The kid's lack of reach caused many of his blows to fall short of their intended mark. It was when he missed these leads that Kilbane was able to land, often with both hands. Once in the fourth round when Williams missed a left hook Kilbane shot his right straight across, sending a flash on Williams' chin. This blow was the hardest of the bout, and had it been on the jaw would likely have ended the match then and there. In the third round their heads came together and a cut was opened over Williams' forehead, while in the fourth Kilbane's right eye showed the impact.

Williams Plays For Body.

The bout was punctuated with enough rapid exchanges to please the most exacting ring-goer. Williams fought for the body, but his blows were often cleverly blocked or else caught Kilbane going away. His judgment of distance was faulty, while Kilbane timed his lead and counters to a nicety, rarely missing a blow.

Charley White, the Chicago lightweight, stopped Sam Robideau of Philadelphia in the first round of a six-round bout here last night. After Robideau had received a terrific uppercut at the point of the jaw and had been knocked down three times for the count of nine, the Philadelphia's seconds, fearing he was in a helpless condition, stopped the fight.

Clabby Also Victor.

The Clabby-Ahearn match also resulted in another victory for the West. The speedy British champion, a failure in both the light and welter weight classes, never had a chance against the Indiana fighter, for Clabby, opening the fight with a planted a stiff right hook to his jaw in the first round and Ahearn nearly went down. Then he started running and Clabby refused to chase him.

Toward the end of the match Ahearn showed a flash of what was expected of him, but he was still on the look-out for another right-hand punch, which may be one of the reasons why he kept clinching at every opportunity. Clabby showed himself to be a master at ring generalship and few of Ahearn's punches, landed on other than Jim's gloves.

Clabby Cops Early.

Hoosier Jim staggered Ahearn with a right to the jaw early in the first round and Ahearn started to clinch. Clabby drilled both hands to body and Ahearn was glad to hear the bell. There was no more to be heard in the round, for Ahearn led and clinched while Clabby tried to tear his arm loose.

BI-STATE LEAGUE TO HAVE SIX CLUBS

Prospects Are That Proposed Bi-State League Will Only Have a Six Club Circuit.

It looks now that the Bi-State league will consist of six clubs or nothing, for the league which faced the rosiest prospects two weeks ago is now up against a possibility that only a Wisconsin club will be in the circuit. Janesville and Madison are now out of the league, and Racine is the only hope of President Parsons to fill out the circuit among Badger clubs.

Racine, which has been claimed by the Northern Wisconsin league, announces that it will not wait for release from the Wisconsin league, but will join the Bi-State organization. The Racine directors are opposed to joining the northern league, largely on account of the unwieldiness of the circuit, with Racine at one end and Escanaba, Michigan, at the other. While nothing definite has been heard from Madison, the Capital City will probably not join. Eight has slumped out, and now the promoters are going to tackle Freeport again. Racine, Rockford, Aurora, Ottawa and Streator look sure to join, and the sixth club is being looked for.

Karst, a Philadelphia semi-pro, paid his own expenses to train with the Brooklyn Dodgers. In the first practice game he made three hits and accepted thirteen chances, ten of them assists, without an error.

The rumor that John McGraw is again angling for Benny Kauff of the Hoosier Feds is again going the rounds.

Fortified Tires

Span the Way from Trouble

Goodyear tires have bridged the way for countless men to less trouble and tax. And those men, by their endorsement, brought our last year's output up to 1,479,883 tires.

Why do you suppose that Goodyear tires hold top place—why you who use other tires? They have held that place for years, outlasting any other.

The only reason, as you must know, is that Goodyear's average best. And that's how they are bound to win you.

The Super-Tire

They are not trouble-proof. Missteps come to them, misuses, accidents, such like other tires. But Goodyear's are Fortified.

Tires. They protect you in five ways employed by no other maker. They combat five major troubles in unique ways, exclusive to Fortified Tires. These five extra features cost us fortunes. One alone—our "On-Air" cure—costs us $450,000 yearly. But they save Goodyear users millions of dollars yearly. They avoid countless troubles for them.

Lower Prices

On February 1st we made another big reduction. That makes three years, totaling 45 per cent. We are giving you, through mammoth production, the best tire value ever known.

Please prove this for your own sake, by the tire itself. The following Goodyear Service Stations will supply you:

THE GRAIN & STOCK RAISERS' CONVENTION ADOPT RESOLUTIONS OF THANKS TO THE GOOD JUDD.

THAT'S the way it is—as soon as men get to know the Real Tobacco Chew, they go out of their way to thank the man who told them about it.

Next thing you know, they are boasting it to others—and so it goes.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and spices. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

Plaints About Objections to Teeth are Unreasonable

Because of the fact that defective teeth resulted in the turning down of a large number of Calgary men at the headquarters for recruiting soldiers, a certain amount of grumbling has been heard locally at what some are pleased to term "red tape methods" in the part of the recruiting officers. During the Boer War large numbers of men were invalided home not merely because they had some bad teeth, but because they had become liable to disease owing to the general condition of the body set up by bad teeth.

It has long been a recognized fact that upon the teeth, to a great extent, the health of the body depends, and if this is so, there are good reasons why poor teeth should prove a barrier. It is unfortunate, of course, that this is the case, but the war office can take no risks.

Do not always equal your income. There are times, at least, when you have a surplus; those are the times to save. ### LOCAL FIRE LADIES IN ROLE OF SAMPOONS

Janesville firemen, besides fighting conflagrations, playing cribbage, racing men from the icy river, also play the leading role in being modern Sampons. Yesterday afternoon, shortly after four o'clock, the department received a call from the Union House that a horse had fallen through the barn floor and it was not possible to raise the animal.

When the fire ladders arrived they found the horse draped over the floor wedged in tight. A piece of horse was put under the animal and after much exertion and muscle straining the horse was lifted out of the hole without injury.

SEVEN HUNDRED AT HIBERNIAN PROGRAM AT APOLLO THEATRE

Standing Room is Sold Last Evening to Special Lodge Services and Annual Celebration.

Seven hundred people, some buying standing room, availed themselves of the opportunity to hear an excellently prepared program last evening at the Apollo Theatre, under the auspices of the Janesville Lodge of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. It was the annual celebration of the order.

The program contained many features. J. J. Cunningham acted as presiding officer for the evening, and offered many pictures were shown. Miss Helen O'Leary of Milwaukee, a soprano of note, rendered "Mother Machree," that brought two encores. Her charming voice and the expressions she gave to the lyrics, the renditions rendered, were extremely pleasing. Her other number was "Tipperary."

Misses Constance Cunningham and Evelyn Welch recited recitations that brought encores. Miss Welch gave B-606, a piece that is unusually difficult, while Miss Cunningham stirred her listeners with a startling selection of railroad wreck.

Miss Anna Thern, of Milwaukee, an instructor of the Hibernians' order in Milwaukee, featured in three Irish dances, namely, The Silver Hornpipe, Highland Fling and Irish Jig. The solos rendered by Edward Leary and Mrs. James Heffernan were well received.

Rev. William Mahoney was the speaker of the evening. His remarks were confined largely to the excellent aid the Irish-Americans have given America. He explained carefully how American development was aided extensively through the contributions of the Irish people. He declared that Ireland has been a great help to this country in the industrial line. Irish contribution in art, science and in general service was emphasized.

Miss Mary Sheridan acted as accompanist for the vocal solos rendered. Miss Elizabeth and Joseph Denning rendered a pleasing piano duet. Miss Mary Sheridan sang "My Wild Irish Rose."

HOME RULE LEAGUE QUIZZING PRACTICE STIRS RESENTMENT

Senator Bray Seeks Law Which Will Protect Candidates from Bombardment of Embarrassing Questions.

Madison, Wis., March 18.—The propriety of bombarding political candidates with sets of questions upon future legislation was questioned and defended before the senate committee on education and public welfare yesterday afternoon. The activities of such organizations as the Equity society, Guardians of Liberty, and the Home Rule league in quizzing candidates, and as regards at least one of these, exacting pledges for a definite stand on certain issues, were mentioned in the discussion.

The hearing was on the bill by Senator W. E. Brainerd prohibiting persons or interests from soliciting contributions from candidates or committees or of written statements from such candidates.

Senator Bray disclaimed personal interest, although he had been annoyed by attempts to "tie him up" to a hide-bound position on various subjects, and said he introduced the bill at the request of a prominent lawyer.

He had been assured by able lawyers, he said, that such a law would stand the test of the courts, and he said he introduced the bill at the request of a prominent lawyer.

ASK BOYS TO HEAR GOOD ROAD EXPERTS

Janesville Commercial Club Sends Out Letters of Invitation for Conference on Saturday.

Letters have been sent out by the good roads committee of the Commercial club to several hundred Rock county boys, inviting them to attend the conference which will be held in this city on Saturday, at which time an announcement will be made of a good roads contest in which it is expected a large number of boys will take an interest. The conference opens at ten o'clock at the court house and will include an afternoon session on the subject of good roads. The afternoon session will be given over more especially to the boys, while the morning meeting will be concerned largely with road problems of interest to the contractors and town supervisors, who have been called in annual session by Mr. Moore. It has been impossible to send a letter to every farmer boy in the county, and it is necessary to get special invitation. Every boy will be welcome.

The Commercial club's letter is as follows: "Mr. Charles E. Moore, county highway commissioner, has invited you to attend the conference on Saturday morning and hear what A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer, and John Donegan, state chief inspector, have to say to the contractors and town supervisors, who have been called in annual session by Mr. Moore. It has been impossible to send a letter to every farmer boy in the county, and it is necessary to get special invitation. Every boy will be welcome.

A FOOLISH POSE.

To pretend to like a picture, a piece of music or a book because others like it and because you know it is a classic and you ought to like it is an affectation. Nevertheless it sometimes has its roots in a genuine desire to improve one's taste and to like the best things.

But to pretend to dislike, or persuade oneself to dislike, anything simply because many others like it is an affectation which, to mind at least, has no excuse at all.

The Ultra Cultured Lady is Bored. Someone spoke of hearing Schubert's Serenade beautifully played the other day. The ultra cultured lady listened with a carefully bored air to the enthusiasm of several music lovers. "No," she admitted, "I can't say I'm fond of it. It is so awfully common, you know."

The effect of her superior boredom was, as she desired, to make the simple folks who had been expressing their enjoyment suddenly sound crude and uncultured to themselves.

Now Schubert's Serenade is a piece of music which to the real music lover can never be worn out, and the rendition that afternoon had been especially fine. Which then, do you think was the truer culture, that which was able to enjoy that beautiful thing or that which pretended to be, or perhaps actually was, bored by it?

The other day I asked a woman of this type if she did not like Tennyson's "Lady of Shalott." "No," she said, "to tell the truth I don't. You know I never like anything anyone else likes," she concluded with a superiority-conscious tone.

The Only Girl Who Didn't Like "Little Women." I never knew but one girl who didn't like "Little Women." Perhaps she was a heretic, but it seemed scarcely possible to me, and as she afterwards grew into the type of the ultra cultured and the taste for books was the beginning of the pose she afterwards adopted.

Of course you can't like everything that everyone else likes, and of course this would be a monotonous world if everyone thought alike. But ask yourself these questions, Madam of the ultra culture and the taste for something different. Wouldn't you like these same things if others didn't like them? Isn't your desire to be different making you unnatural? If you can give an honest, from the bottom of your heart "No" to these questions, you don't deserve what I've been saying to you. Otherwise you do.

Questions and Answers.

Question.—My husband and I have been having a discussion as to what a woman's clothes should cost in proportion to a man's. We want to apportion for clothes be equal or should the woman's be more? Answer.—If your husband wants you to appear as well dressed as he, I should say you would certainly have to have more money. In a good business suit a man is properly attired not only for business but for a luncheon gathering, for the matinee or to drop in at an afternoon tea. Moreover the average man wears a business suit to a restaurant dinner, to the theatre or to an informal evening gathering. What man would be satisfied if his wife appeared in the houseworn, which she wears at her business, on all these occasions? Furthermore, woman's underwear and small appointments cost much more. A woman's wardrobe should be at least twice as much money as her husband. What do my reader friends think?

FOR LITTLE FOLKS

BY ALICE CLARK GAIL

THE ADVENTURES OF MINNIE MONKEY.

Poor Minnie Monkey said: "Oh, dear! why did I run away? That was a very wicked act of mine; If ever I get safely home, as sure as I'm alive, I'll never try another monkey-thing."

The boy who caught Minnie said: "My folks will all be glad to see you, but the boy was wrong, it seemed. For when he showed the monkey to his mother, that good dame just threw her hands up in the air and screamed."

"Of course I cannot let you keep the ugly little thing! Just think of all the bother it would be. So take it right away from here as quickly as you can, And give it to somebody else," said she.

Although the boy coaxed very hard it did no good at all. So after while he said: "I think I'll go And give her to the circus, here in town; She'd like to live a circus life, I know."

Thought Minnie: "Now I wonder what is going to happen next, That a circus is I do not know where they were standing in a tent, Beside the Circus Man who owned the show."

Said he: "Your monkey's nice enough, but has she any tricks?" The boy said: "Yes, indeed, just watch her now." And though poor Minnie Monkey was as frightened as could be, She turned a somersault and made a bow.

The man said: "I will take her, but she'll have to learn more tricks; I'm sure that she can manage to do right." And so the boy went off and left Minnie with the show; What happened next I'll tell tomorrow night.

UP-TO-DATE RECIPES.

Sham Omelet.—Break five salted crackers into two cups of milk. Soak well, then cook with boiling water, stir in two beaten eggs, stirring until well folded into milk. Then let stand, cooking just a little, and fold over again. Thus, perhaps two or three times. (Don't forget salt and pepper to taste.) Serve on buttered toast.

Rutabagas With Lamb.—Rutabagas are plentiful now and sell at one cent a pound; they weigh from one to six pounds each. Take two pounds of lamb, wash and put to boil with water to cover. After a few minutes of boiling skim and add salt to taste.

Cooks Fast, Slow or "Fireless"

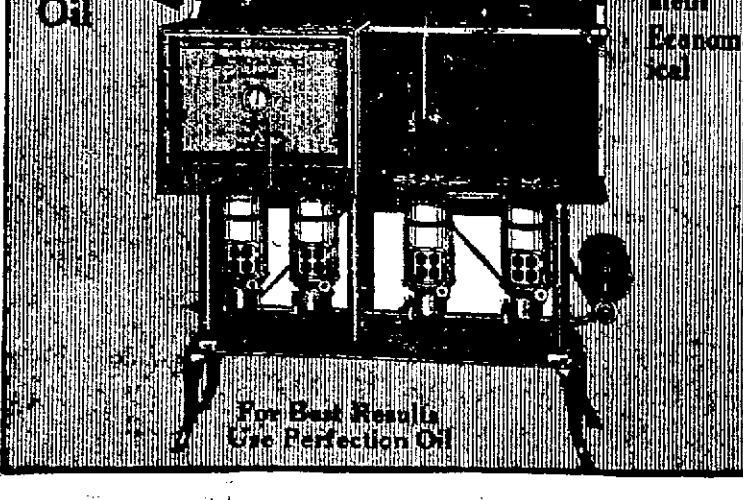

You can cook three ways with this NEW PERFECTION with the insulated oven. By adjusting the flame you get the quickest kind of quick heat for fast baking, or the steady kind you need for baking bread and roasting. Seal the oven and turn on the flame and you have a fireless cook stove—the easiest managed, most convenient fireless that was ever invented.

The insulation keeps the heat in the oven and out of the kitchen. This saves fuel all the year 'round and is a blessing in the summer. A spacious cabinet top warms up the dishes, there is ample room behind the burners for keeping food hot. Burns oil—clean, convenient, economical. Why carry coal and wood in and dirty ashes out when with a NEW PERFECTION all you need is matches. Price amazingly low—this splendid range and fireless cooker combined costs very little more than a good fireless and less than any coal or wood range that would begin to do the same work.

Buttermilk. Will you, of the Pure Food page, which I cherish very much (for I am an experienced housekeeper), give your opinion of buttermilk as a drink? If wholesome when should it be used, and should one drink it every day? What are its virtues above new milk?

Mrs. A. D. R. A clean, pure buttermilk is an exceedingly nourishing and beneficial food. It may be used as often as one desires. It is richer in lactic acid than is new milk, and it is supposed that the lactic acid exerts a beneficial effect upon the intestinal tract.

Potato Starch and Flour. What is the difference between potato starch and potato flour? Mrs. P. N. J.

The words "potato starch" and "potato flour" are often used synonymously in the trade. There is, however, a distinction. Potato starch is the pure starch from the potato. Potato flour is the dried and ground whole potato which contains a few substances besides starch, for example, some mineral matter, certain proteins and a very little fat.

Acetic Acid in Vinegar. I am an orderer and each year I have several barrels of apples that are either imperfect or too small for the necessary grading. In 1911 I had an unusually large crop and was advised to buy a cask of pure vinegar, and had between two and three barrels of cider for vinegar. After waiting the usual length of time, I attempted to sell it but was told that it was not sufficient acetic acid in it to fulfill the requirements of our state law. It is strong, pure and good and I wish to sell it for I need the income. What can I do? I shall be grateful for any suggestion.

Mrs. J. S. R. If the vinegar is deficient in acetic acid, of course you would not care to sell it for pure vinegar. Acetic acid in vinegar, as you know, is derived from the alcoholic fermentation of the various sugars that are therein contained. The alcohol is finally by an ate oven. A white sauce may be served if desired. "Canadian Snow" Pudding.—Thicken one pint boiling water with three tablespoons cornstarch, a little salt, one tablespoon sugar. Beat whites of two eggs stiff and mix with hot; add two drops vanilla flavoring. Set away to get cold. Serve with sauce made with milk thickened with the yolks, two eggs, two tablespoons cornstarch, pinch of salt, plenty of sugar and two drops of pineapple flavoring.

Crispettes.—Beat two eggs, add one cup brown sugar sifted with six teaspoons flour and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Beat. Add one cup chopped nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls about three inches apart on greased paper. Bake in hot oven.

Johnnycake.—Anyone who wants to make a reputation for baking Johnnycakes should use this recipe: Two cups corn meal, one cup flour, half cup sugar, two cups rich sour cream, three eggs, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon baking powder, a little salt. Two cups buttermilk and two tablespoons lard can be used in place of the cream.

Burnt Sugar Cake.—One cup granulated sugar, burn until very black, then add one-half cup cold water slowly. Cook until you have a thick syrup; enough for five or six cakes. Then take 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar, sifted; half cup butter, yolks two eggs, one cup cold water, two cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder, and well-beaten whites of two eggs. Use any good icing.

other form of fermentation turned over into acetic acid. Sometimes the acidity of vinegar may be increased by adding a very small quantity of new cider or fresh apple juice. Of course other material, such as molasses or glucose might be added, but that case you would not have a strictly pure cider vinegar; rather a compound vinegar.

A Vegetarian Convert. Recently I read with interest the question of R. C. concerning food of meat, foolishly supposing it to be essential to my health and strength. I have since learned (by experience) that eating meat is simply a habit and that it is not necessary to give up strength or endurance.

On the advice of my physician during the last three years I have become almost a complete vegetarian. I only eat meat when dining out where courtesy compels it and then very sparingly. Whereas I formerly suffered from indigestion, constipation, and frequent attacks of rheumatism, I am now absolutely free from these or any other ailments, and attribute my splendid strength and perfect health to my present diet of vegetables, whole wheat bread, corn cake, etc. I feel that the editor of the department is to be congratulated on the many interesting questions in these columns.

J. A. B. Meat is not essential, nor in some cases even desirable. You have been hit upon a safe and sane diet. All of us could with profit eat more freely of vegetables or whole grains.

What is dry milk? Is it a whole-some product? I used one pound of it and found it very satisfactory, but as I cannot find out anything about it I am afraid to use it. It is sold in bulk.

Mrs. P. N. J. Dried milk is ordinary milk which has been subjected by special process to the action of heat. It is a dry product and is properly made is an excellent product. There is no reason why you should not use it.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of twenty-two. For the past two years I have worked as a private family. Since making this my home I have come to know quite a few young men who I live. I know work near where their faces, but not their names. When I meet them on the street they always speak. Is there any harm in speaking to them? I have met a young man who seems to think a lot of me. When we are at the same place he leaves me. Now while I think that my heart has gone to this person, I have tried in on way to show him that I care for him. He was an entire stranger until about a year ago, and I was a sad and lonely girl. I think that I could be happy with him. Kindly advise me what to do.

A SAD AND LONELY GIRL. Yes, there is. If they really care for your acquaintance they will find someone to introduce them to you.

(2) There is no way in which you can show that you care for him. If he wants you he will say so.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please advise me what to do? I am twenty-three and have a friend who comes to see me once a week. My people do not think it is right for us to sit in the room by ourselves, and they always stay with us. My friend does not like it. He has been coming to see me for four months now, and has never had a chance to speak to me alone.

E. C. A girl of twenty-three ought to be old enough to entertain a man, at least part of the evening, alone. Of course, if girls prove themselves unworthy of trust by "sponging," parents should watch them closely. The custom of entire chaperonage has been worn out except in the most prudish fashionable circles. Tell your mother so.

BELGIANS CELEBRATED WASHINGTON BIRTHDAY TO SHOW APPRECIATION.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Brussels, March 18.—No foreign holiday has ever been celebrated so fervently in Belgium as was Washington's Birthday, but in the City of Brussels St. Valentine's Day was the national fête day of the United States and consequently on the fourteenth thousands of citizens wore small American flags, and letters of good wishes were poured into the American Legation.

The province of Liege made no mistake in the matter, and the City Council of Liege ordered that Washington's Birthday should be celebrated with formal exercises in the schools which were also granted a vacation on the twenty-third. The following circular was therefore sent to the headmasters of the various schools for girls and of all grammar schools partake in the celebration and that on this occasion the importance of the service rendered by the American republic to the Motherland and the noble example set by this act of international solidarity be clearly illumined. I leave it to your judgment to arrange the details of the manifestation.

"I wonder who that can be! You go to the door, Dick, and don't be too cordial, for we must eat at once if we are to dress and make that train." Nell was just finishing the preparations for dinner. She heard a voice say: "Hello! Where did you drop from? My, it's good to see you."

She tiptoed into the room to reconnoiter, and saw Dick standing in front of a gray-washed wall. He had one arm on his shoulder and was beaming into his face as only Dick knew how to beam. "Nell! Come here. It's father."

The ring of joy must have warmed the old man's heart. "I'm so glad to see you. Dick has told me so much about you that I feel as if I had known you a long time."

He took her face between his hands and kissed both cheeks. "Go kiss my little daughter," he said with Dick's own smile.

"Now take father to his room. Dinner is all ready and we will sit down at once."

"Why didn't you tell us you were coming so we could meet you?" asked Dick as they went up the stairs. "I wasn't sure I could get a man to do the work until the last minute. I knew I could find you all right."

"Now, father, we are going to take you to Kansas City to a play to-night," announced Dick at the table. "You see, we have tickets and the train leaves in an hour."

"But you hadn't planned on my going, I can stay."

"No, indeed, you can't," chorused the young people. We can easily get another seat. The play is good; you'll enjoy it."

The old gentleman looked very much interested, but a doubtful cloud crossed his face as he said, "I'm afraid your mother—"

"Mother is out of this and will stay out. You're our guest and are responsible for what we do with you, Mum's the word."

Turkish Nation Has Gradually Lost Power In Southern Europe

Washington, D. C., March 18.—"While the face of Turkey hangs on the balance, her destruction threatened the alliance of two countries whose past rivalries preserved to her what she has in Europe today," says a statement issued by the National Geographic Society. "It is interesting to go back and follow her down through the centuries that mark the waxing and the waning of the Crescent in Southern Europe."

In 1190 the map of Europe was vastly different from what it is today. Practically all of what is now Greece and European Turkey was then the Eastern Roman Empire. Constantinople was its capital, and it was the control of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus as much as Turkey has recently. Russia at that time was a small power, not more than 150 miles of the Black Sea.

Across in Asia, south of the eastern half of the Black Sea, was the vast empire of the Persians, and east of the Mediterranean and eastern Africa were the dominions of the Ottomans.

"As the years went by the forces of the Crescent gradually extended themselves through Asia Minor, and before the passing of many generations they were thundering at the gates of Europe across the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles. In vain did Emperor Justinian appeal to Europe to help stay the tide, and in 1453 the cloud that had loomed for several centuries, descended upon Constantinople and southeastern Europe.

"The Turkish power in Europe, the Turks realized that they could maintain it only by a process of expansion. And European politics at that time, just as in all the centuries that have succeeded, were dominated by the Christian Europe from uniting against Mohammedan Turkey.

"But the several countries of Europe were busy with their own particular affairs and too state to unite in checking the Ottoman invasion. The result was that by the middle of the sixteenth century Turkey included all the Balkan peninsula, Greece, Moldavia, Transylvania, Bosnia, Herzegovina, and that part of Hungary east of a line drawn north and south half way between Budapest and Vienna.

"As the generations passed, however, Turkish power in Europe began to wane. In her stock-taking after the treaties of Utrecht and Rastadt, Turkey found her European dominions shrunken considerably, and compared with what they were in the middle of the sixteenth century, Hungary had pushed back the invader sev-

TOM RICHMOND HAS TILT WITH DITHMAR

Lieutenant Governor Accuses Lawyer of Giving Stereotype Speeches and Asks Whom He Represents.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 18.—Lieutenant Governor E. F. Dithmar, an officer of the Home Rule and Taxpayers' league, figured in a sharp colloquy before the committee on education and public welfare of the senate yesterday afternoon. Mr. Richmond was speaking for Senator Frank Hanson's bill repealing the campaign pamphlet law, which is called for and unconstitutional besides. When he closed, the lieutenant governor said:

"All the arguments Mr. Richmond has advanced on this bill I have heard him present before the highway committee on a road bill. It seems to me he should tell this committee whom he represents."

Hot Words Exchanged.

"I represent myself, as I stated," answered the Madison lawyer.

"Then it seems very strange," continued Mr. Dithmar, "that you have gone before a dozen committees recently with much the same arguments before them all. I believe the records of this committee should show what interests are being represented."

"Do you challenge my statement?" asked Mr. Richmond, with rising wrath.

"I do not," said Mr. Dithmar, "but I repeat that it seems strange that you should make practically the same arguments before several committees."

Here the incident was dropped.

Mr. Dithmar informed the committee that the present law is better than none on the subject, and that if it is repealed something better should be put in its place. He predicted that every republican who runs for a state office next year will take space in the pamphlet and that the next campaign will show an increased demand for it by candidates generally. He believed the people of the state do not have all the information about candidates they need unless it comes to them from a medium like the state pamphlet.

ASSEMBLY SHELVES NORDMAN'S SINGLE TAX PROPOSITION

Resolution Calling for Referendum on Proposed Constitutional Amendment Killed Last Night.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 18.—The assembly last night by a two to one vote indefinitely postponed the Nordman resolution for a constitutional amendment to permit counties at their option to exempt designated classes of property from taxation. This is commonly known as the single tax proposal.

The vote stood 27 to 29, as follows:

For Killings—Assemblymen Arne, Mann, Albenbacher, Ballard, Beck, Berninger, Biel, Burrows, Caldwell, Greney, Crosby, Dickle, Dixon, Edwards, Everett, Frederick, Heiloff, Ganser, Grell, Gruenewald, Hager, Hambrecht, Carl Hanson, F. S. Hanson, Harrington, Hart, Heathcote, Heden, Heim, Herzog, Hoffman, Krems, Kutenacher, Laine, Lathrop, Laursen, Lantz, Melvin, Morgan, Mortenson, Nelson, Neumelster, Ostie, Poole, Prescott, Neubardt, Schindler, Schroeder, Stewart, Wells, Zende, Van Gordon, Vincent, Vande, Whitcomb, Winger, Wolfenbarger, Bradley.

Against Killings—Speaker Whitte—57.

Against killing—Duffy, Engelbrecht, Feldhausen, Franzen, Julius Hanson, Hess, Jensen, Johnson, Kent, Klein, Nordman, Nye, O'Brien, Parker, Pieper, Ploeger, Rentz, Smith, Spoor, Tews, Vink, Waldron, Weber, Zinn—29.

Favored in North.

Had the resolution passed it would have been submitted to the people next year, as it passed the 1913 legislature by a comfortable margin. Northern Wisconsin members generally voted for the measure. It was lauded as a step in the movement of settling undeveloped portions of the state. The socialist contingent and a number of southern and central Wisconsin members also voted for it because it calls for a referendum and they said they believed in giving the people a chance to say whether or not they wanted constitutional changes.

The bill was supported in speeches last night by Assemblymen McGowan, Nordman and Nye, and opposed by Assemblyman Hambrecht.

Assemblyman Nye stated his position in the following language:

"This resolution merely allows counties to tax and exempt what properties they wish. I believe in giving the people what they want. When any considerable number of the people of Wisconsin want our constitution amended, I believe in giving them a chance to vote on it. This all this resolution provides. Give them this chance on this resolution and you are going to stave off that constitutional convention just that much longer."

This resolution has been hand-capped, being designated as the single tax proposition. It is not such at all. Many people who don't want the single tax are in favor of county option on the matter of exemption of certain property from taxation. If one of our elevators had paid taxes on a fully assessed valuation it would have paid $100,000 in taxes. If it had paid $100,000 in taxes, it would have paid $100,000 in taxes. I know of tobacco growers who send out carloads of leaf tobacco $80 at a time. In April, to avoid taxes due in May, they ship it to Canada. That condition holds in Southern Wisconsin.

Why Westfield Objects to All Coal Tar Dyes In Food Products.

Fifteenth of a series to appear on the Food Page of this paper each Thursday

IN searching for ways to fool the public the food adulterator finds a strong ally in coal tar dyes. There are literally thousands of these dyes, and before the enactment of the Food and Drugs Act in 1906 the food manufacturer who so desired could use almost any one of these without the slightest hindrance from Government or State officials. It was well known that many of the coal tar colors used at that time were either poisonous in themselves or that they had a habit of "splitting up" into poisonous and deleterious compounds. Others seemed to have no physiological effect. Certified or legally permitted dyes are no doubt an advance over the hideous array formerly used, but of the dyes the Government has selected seven, which, "pending further product concerning the healthful ther investigation," are permitted none of which the Government expects to be used in food products. These ports themselves are uncertain; are known among manufacturers. Shall we allow the little child to eat "the seven certified colors." Our point his stomach and delicate digestive tissues with candy lolly-pop colored with coal tar dye? Here are some of the reasons why. In other words, the civic stomach is a test tube "pending further investigation."

Coal tar colors are used in many low grade products such as catsup, apple sauce, jams, jellies, pie fillers, cakes, tarts, imitation fruit juices, soda waters, ice cream, cheap candies, egg powders, confection preparations, wines, liquors, flavoring extracts and gelatin dessert preparations, as well as macaroni, spaghetti, low grade butter, etc., etc. The basis of all coal tar dyes is an extremely poisonous substance known as aniline, and most of these dyes are made either directly or indirectly from this chemical. Artificial coloring of food products is founded upon deception either innocent or fraudulent—innocent when the manufacturer desires to make his product more attractive to the eye, and fraudulent

Here is the Food Standard of the Pure Food Town of Westfield, Mass. More exacting than Government Food Standards or State Food Laws.

"Foods shall not contain added color except their quality, strength or purity. ALUM, COPPER, FORMALDEHYDE, SULFURIC ACID or its Salts, BORIC ACID or its Salts, BENZOIC ACID or its Salts, FORMALIC ACID or its Salts, HYDROFLUORIC ACID or its Salts, SALICYLIC ACID or its Salts, nor any other non-condimental preservative. "Food shall not be colored with COAL TAR DYES, nor with poisonous VEGETABLE COLORS, nor be contaminated with inert fillers, nor shall any substance be taken therefrom or added thereto so as to injuriously affect their quality, strength or purity. "Foods shall be packed and sold under sanitary conditions and package goods shall bear no DISHONEST LABEL, nor labels bearing any EXTRACT, ADJUNCT or OBSCURE statement. "For protection to yourself and your family, see that you buy only foods and beverages that are certified under 'The Westfield Standard.' "You will then be buying only products of high food value—wholesome and pure."

CORN CONTEST BOYS DEPART FOR MADISON

ARE GUESTS OF COMMERCIAL CLUB IN VISIT TO CAPITAL CITY TODAY.

HEAR DEAN DAVENPORT

Enjoy Visit to Wisconsin Agricultural School and to Legislature in the Afternoon.—Meet Gov. ernor Philipp.

Forty-two boys of Rock county, who were contestants in the Commercial club corn contest last year, left this morning at 7:50 over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad for Madison where they will remain until the afternoon as guests of the Commercial club. J. W. McDowell, secretary of the Commercial club, H. H. Bliss, A. B. West, J. A. Craig, and L. A. Markham accompanied the party.

This morning the contestants attended the graduation exercises of the class at the university short course of agriculture, and heard Dean Davenport of Illinois university, deliver the principal address. The Wisconsin agricultural school will also be visited during the morning.

After dinner the Wisconsin legislature was visited and the boys were given the opportunity of seeing the state law-making session. Later in the afternoon the entire group were presented to Governor Philipp, who greeted the boys individually in his office and spoke a few words regarding the benefit of such contests as have been conducted in Rock county during the last two years.

The return trip will be made late in the afternoon. Those who enjoyed the trip were:

No. 29; Myrl Davis, Milton; Roland Rice, Milton; Edith Smith, Milton; J. C. Wis.; Donald Campbell, Evansville.

Hear Davenport's Address.
One of the real treats of the expedition was the address of Dr. Eugene Davenport of Illinois university, at the graduation exercises of the agricultural short-course. He emphasized the fact that the work of the farmer of the future is to rehabilitate the soil, to make it with commodious and comfortable farm homes, and to live with those who will look upon country life as a normal type of existence, not as a means to an idle and worthless end.

Times have changed, but I would have you understand, fundamentally, they have not changed so much at this point as the casual onlooker may think," said Dean Davenport. "We count values recklessly nowadays, and glibly the hundreds and even the thousands roll off our tongues. Nevertheless, I would have you know and feel at the outset of your career in farming that real money is yet, and always will be, comparatively difficult to produce. This is a lesson the world will learn by methods as old as time, though occasionally unknown in this country as yet. I would have you know that the values we all talk about these days—not only money, but others, come not so much from what is actually produced and the profits thereon, as from the unearned increment of the land, which a few have realized alone by sale or loan, and which in the form of unearned credits or values, the floating values with which we are doing a dangerously large and hazardous business, mostly unproductive."

Must Bear Burden.
Dean Davenport pointed out that the generations of the future must bear the burden of this unearned increment placed upon the land. He declared that our fathers paid it, they went but that we are mortgaging the future, and that children unborn and their descendants will pay some of the obligations that the present generation is piling up against the land.

"Here is the root of what will one day develop into either an agrarian war or a labor revolution," declared the speaker with emphasis. "The land is the principle that he who spends must also earn, and that one generation has no right to sell out another."

Pay The Bill.
"Specifically this is what I mean," when Jones and his family live on the proceeds of the unearned increment, somebody will sometime be obliged to pay the bill. If one of the little Joneses—growing up—assumes the inheritance with the income, he will find out what that auto really costs in which he, as a child had such good times, not realizing it was bought on a mortgage and that he was elected to pay for it in 60 years.

Dean Davenport pointed out that the Jones family passes out of the family, and somebody else pays $200 an acre for the land that a half a century before was bought for $125 an acre, to which only some $40 or $50 of real improvement has been added, it is he who will find what unearned increment really means; and how it is that he pays for what he never saw it, which was worn out perhaps a quarter of a century before. It is in this way that the auto is really earned by a man who never saw it, much less enjoyed its benefits. In this roundabout fashion that some of our modern extravagances will one day come home to roost; and the pathos of it is that the man on whom they descend has probably not known of their existence."

Better Agriculture.
Dean Davenport admonished his hearers to study the meaning of our present land values and to come to know what it carries by way of obligation as well as privilege to own and operate a farm. He urged them to do all possible to build up a permanent agriculture, a productive agriculture, a profitable agriculture, a comfortable and a beautiful agriculture.

Agriculture must be not only permanent to the state, productive to be adequate, profitable to be possible, but it must also be comfortable to those who engage in it," he continued. "I urge you, therefore, to equip your farms with comfortable homes, wherein American citizenship may be safely born and reared to proper standards of living and proper conception of civilized society. The country as a whole, and municipal life in particular, needs the influence of cultivated country people who depend upon themselves, and not upon others for their prosperity. The farmer is independent of position or political pull. He draws his living from the great breath of nature, not from the public crib; and it is important, yes, imperative, that he be a typical citizen. We are in the midst of our building of American agriculture. It has been developed from a proper conception of what the finished product is to be, the end will be as beautiful as well as utility. Now is the time to know whether our efforts have been actuated by the aesthetic as well as the utilitarian in drafting our designs for twentieth century progress."

Rock County Graduates.
The following Rock county boys were graduated from the agricultural school short course at the exercises today:

Frank Austin, Janesville; Ira D. Austin, Janesville; Sherman W. Brown, Janesville; Earl Harry Fellows, Evansville; Ods D. Gooch, Hanover; Bennie V. Hestell, Beloit; Iver Wedebrand, Footville.

CENTER

Center, March 16.—The nice spring days the past week were followed by a typical March day with snow flurries all day.

Mrs. John Goldsmith entertained a party of ladies last Saturday, the guests of honor being her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Herman Zulke and daughter Margaret, of Neillsville, Wisconsin, who are visiting at the parental home.

Mrs. F. L. Davis left Saturday for a few days' visit with relatives in Janesville and Milton.

Julius Jaeger is planning to build a fine new farm house this season.

The Misses Amanda and Sarah Ade and Mrs. C. E. Fisher attended a miscellaneous shower given for Miss Blanche Wheeler, at her home in Porter last Tuesday.

R. O. Shaw, wife and daughter Marie of Beloit were over Sunday visiting at the home of H. C. Barlow of South Center, returning to their home Monday.

Hiram Cator has been visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Davis.

Japanese Cookery.
Japanese cooks seldom use the fingers in the preparation of food. Chopsticks, spoons and many other ingenious little utensils in white wood do the work, which is of the most elaborate nature, many of the dishes requiring twenty-four hours to prepare.

AMUSEMENTS

AT MYERS THEATRE.
ADVERTISEMENT

Guy Bates Post in "Omar, the Tentmaker."

The exotic mystery and bewildering fascination of the Orient has been re-produced with the utmost fidelity in the sumptuous Persian spectacle, "Omar, the Tentmaker," in which Guy Bates Post will appear at the Myers Theatre for one night, Monday, March 22nd. Especially noteworthy is the scene depicting the huddled streets and silk-laden bazaars of the ancient city of Nalshapur. The colorful and vivid costumes displayed by the hundred actors were designed by Eric Fane, a Boston artist, who has spent many years of his life in the Orient. As a sumptuous spectacle "Omar, the Tentmaker" surpasses in pictorial lavishment and beauty "Kismet," which has graced our stage since "Ten Hur." Richard Walton Tully, author of "Omar, the Tentmaker," has to his credit two other highly successful plays, "The Bird of Paradise," and "The Rose of the Rancho," although neither of them received the metropolitan triumph that was accorded "Omar, the Tentmaker," during its five months' run in New York.

HUMAN INTEREST
PLAY AT MYERS

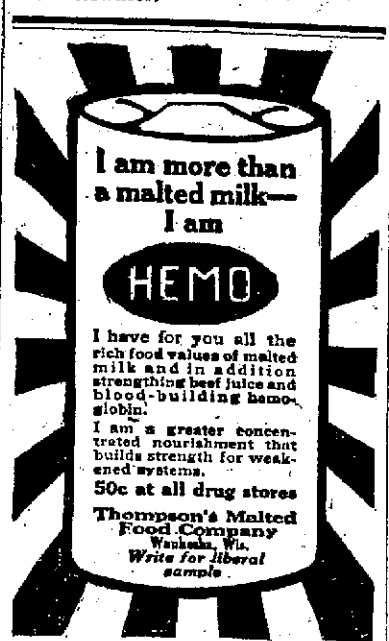

May Robson and Company Won Audience in "Martha By-the-Day" Last Evening.

"Martha By-the-Day" is a play that carries a simple and universal appeal for theatre-goers of all ages and suited to varied tastes. Laughter and pathos blend throughout the entire story with the laughter always foremost. The character which Miss Robson portrayed, Martha Slawson, reveals her ability as a comedienne. Martha is a lovable, outspoken, generous and kind-hearted woman who is proof against sorrow of any kind. She has an unusual amount of common sense. Her lines abound in clever satire and rare wit.

Jane Heron, Langdon Gillett, Mary Mersch, Edwin Grant, Violet Howard, Coles Gwynne, Emily Lorraine, Henrietta McDannel, Roy Arnow, Elizabeth Warren and others furnished capable support for Miss Robson and the scenic effects were unusually elaborate for a comedy offering.

NIGGERHEAD

IN APPEARANCE is as bright and glossy as hard coal, and as clean to handle.

IT IS PERFECTLY PURE and is free from stone, slate, bone, or foreign substances of any kind.

IT BURNS with a tremendous heat.

IT MAKES NO SMOKE to speak of. Upon throwing NIGGERHEAD on the fire, the soot particles are quickly released and owing to its high carbon, are quickly consumed, leaving a smokeless, yielding bed of hot fire.

IT MAKES ABOUT ONE PER CENT ASH, according to chemical analysis, or a little over 20 pounds to the ton.

A USER OF NIGGERHEAD TAKES OUT ASHES ONLY ONCE A WEEK. With average soft coal an ordinary furnace needs cleaning every day.

STUDY AND COMPARE THIS ANALYSIS OF NIGGERHEAD WITH ANY OTHER SOFT COAL THAT YOU HANDLE.

Fixed Carbon	81.66
Volatile Matter	16.12
Moisture	.67
Ash	1.06
Sulphur	.43
	100.00

British Thermal Units, 15037.

FOR FURNACES NIGGERHEAD is displacing smokeless. It is cleaner to handle, beautiful in appearance, and is a much better stocker.

FOR GRATES NIGGERHEAD is displacing Cannel. It makes as hot a fire, burns up cleaner and costs less.

FOR COOK STOVES NIGGERHEAD is considered superior to any other coal mined. Makes less ash and a much hotter fire.

To-morrow—the First Advance Spring Showing of Women's Wooltex Tailored Suits and Coats

Ready for Women who like to be First to Wear the New Fashions

TO-MORROW we will present the most interesting advance collection of women's Wooltex tailored suits and coats that we have ever shown.

We have planned this display to meet the desires of the many fashionable women who are always eager to take advantage of the opportunity to secure the handsome spring styles at the first moment when winter apparel can be set aside.

Every garment in the collection has been selected for its graceful style; its refinement; the beauty of its fabric and the superlative manner in which it is made.

The new suits have many charming original features. The models this season are more conservative because the war abroad has subdued fashions everywhere. The military influence is apparent in some of them. Never in the past have the lines of the garments shown greater art on the part of the designers.

Wooltex garments are absolutely correct in style, but no extreme effects are presented. The fabrics are unusually beautiful and there is a wide representation of the new sand and putty colorings, with new blues and other desirable dark colorings. The simplicity of the models gives exceptional effectiveness to the superb tailoring that is a characteristic of Wooltex suits and coats.

Note the Garments Illustrated

The group of garments illustrated gives an excellent representation of the new styles that are shown to-morrow.

The collars are a distinct feature of the present season's styles. Rolling collars are the rule, some of them adapted from the coats of military officers; some in quite definite Robespierre style. Some show bands in bright colorings under the roll of the collar. Practically all of the coats have detachable pique or lingerie collars laid over the cloth collars.

Most of the coats have set-in sleeves. The garments are tailored with more ease than last year and show graceful flares at the bottom of the coats, produced by means of the in-set godets at the sides of the coats below the waist-line, which give the extra width and also assure the smart wing-like flare.

Plants and Belts on Coats

Many of the coats are pleated in soft folds frequently held down by belts or partial belt effect. Some of the coats have slightly raised waist-lines; on others the line is carried far below the waist.

Many charming pocket effects are produced in both coats and skirts. This is a feature seen in the latest suits brought from Paris.

The pockets are useful as well as decorative.

Many Artistic Styles in both Suits and Coats at

$25.00 $30.00 $35.00

We cordially invite all women interested in spring apparel and especially those who know the superior qualities of Wooltex garments to visit our store to-morrow and during the coming week to view this charming collection.

Know Your Next Duty.

What is my next duty? What is the thing that lies nearest me? That belongs to your every-day history. No one can answer that question but yourself. Your next duty is just to determine what your next duty is. Is there nothing you neglect? Is there nothing you know you ought not to do? You would know your duty, if you thought in earnest about it, and were not ambitious of great things.—George MacDonald.

"I don't want to smoke it," said Mr. Riggs, vigorously declining his property.

"The darned thing's bewitched," Whereupon Ranjab took it out of the drawer and again threw it into the air. Then he calmly reached above his head and plucked a fresh cigar out of space, obsequiously tendering it to the amazed old man, who accepted it with the sheepish grin of a be-addled schoolboy.

"You haven't lost any of your old skill," said Mr. Dawes, involuntarily glancing at his own cigar to make sure that he had it firmly gripped in his stubby fingers. "You ought to be a sideshow, Ranjab."

Ranjab paused, before responding, to extract a couple of billiard balls and a small paper knife from the lapel of Mr. Dawes' coat.

"I am to perform tonight, sahib, for the mistress's guests. It is to be—what you call him? A sideshow? Ranjab is to do his tricks for her, as the dog performs for his master." The smile had disappeared. His face was an impenetrable mask once more. Had their eyes been young and keen; however, they might have caught the flash of anger in his.

"Going to do all the old tricks?" cried Mr. Riggs eagerly. "By George, I'd like to see 'em again, wouldn't you, Dan? I'm glad we've got our good clothes on. Now you see what comes of always being prepared to—"

"Sorry, sahib, but the master has request me to entertain you before the guests come up. Coffee is to be served here."

"That means we'll have to clear out," said Riggs, slowly.

"But see!" cried Ranjab, genuinely sorry for them. He became enthusiastic once more. "See! I shall do them all—and better, too, for you."

For ten minutes he astonished the old men with the mysterious feats of the Indian fakir. They waxed enthusiastic.

stairs. "You must not say such—"

"I suppose you're trying to smooth it over so that they won't consider him a brute, is that it?"

"Hush! Please, please! You know that my heart aches for you, mon ami. It was cruel of him, it was cowardly, yes, cowardly! Now I have said it!" She drew herself up and turned deliberately toward the little door across the room.

His eyes brightened. The crooked sneer turned into an imploring smile.

"Forgive me, Yvonne! You must see that I'm beside myself. I—I—"

"But you must be sensible. Remember he is your father. He is a strange man. There has been a great deal of bitterness in his life. 'He—'

"But I can't go on the way things are now. He's getting to be worse than ever. I never have had a kind word from him, seldom a word of any description. Never a kind look. Can't you understand how it goes to me?"

"I am your friend," she said slowly. "Is this the way to reward me?"

He dropped to his knees and covered her hands with kisses, mumbling his plea for forgiveness.

"I am so terribly unhappy," he said over and over again. "I'd leave this house tonight if it were not that I can't bear the thought of leaving you, Yvonne. I adore you. You are everything in the world to me. I—"

"Get up!" she cried out sharply. He lifted his eyes in dumb wonder and adoration, but not in time to catch the look of triumph that swept across her face.

"You will forgive me?" he cried, coming to his feet. "I—I couldn't help saying it. It was wrong—wrong! But you will forgive me, Yvonne?"

She turned away, walking slowly toward the door. He remained rooted to the spot, blushing with shame and dismay.

"Where are you going? To tell him?" he gasped.

She waited an instant, and then came toward him. He never could have explained the unaccountable impulse that forced him to fall back a few steps as she approached. Her eyes were gazing steadily into his, and her red lips were parted.

"That is as it should be," she was saying, but he was never sure that he heard the words. His knees grew weak. He was in the toils! "Now, you must pull yourself together," she went on in such a matter-of-fact tone that he straightened up involuntarily.

"Come! Wipe the tear stains from your cheeks."

He obeyed, but his lips still quivered with the rage that had been checked by the ascendancy of another and even more devastating emotion.

She was standing quite close to him now, her slender figure swaying slightly as if moved by some strange, rhythmic melody to which the heart beat time. Her eyes were soft and velvety again; her smile tender and appealing. The vivid white of her arms and shoulders seemed to shed a soft light about her, so radiant was the sheen of the satin skin.

She moved closer to him, and with deft fingers applied her tiny lace handkerchief to his flushed cheek and eyes, laughing softly as she did so; a low gurgle of infinite sweetness and concern.

He stood like a statue, scarcely breathing, the veins in his throat throbbing violently.

"There!" she said, and deliberately touched the moucher to her own smiling lips, before replacing it in her bodice, next to the warm, soft skin.

"I have been thinking, Frederic," she said, suddenly serious. "Perhaps it would be better if we were not alone when the others came up. Go at once and fetch the two old men. Tell them

"I expect them here to witness the magic. It appears to be a family party, so why exclude them? Be quick!"

He dashed off to obey her command. She lighted a cigarette at the table, her unsmiling eyes fixed on the door of the Hindu's closet. Then, with a little sigh, she sank down on the broad couch and stretched her supple body in the ecstasy of complete relaxation.

The scene at the dinner table had been most distressing. Up to the instant of the outburst her husband had been in singularly gay spirits, a circumstance so unusual that the whole party wondered not a little. If the others were vaguely puzzled by his high humor, not so Yvonne. She understood him better than anyone else in the world; she read his mind as she would have read an open book. There was riot, not joy, in the heart of the brilliant talker at the head of the table. He was talking against the savagery that strained so hard at its leashes.

At her right sat Frederic, at her left the renowned Doctor Hodder, whose fests at the operating table were vastly more successful than his efforts at the dinner table. He was a very wonderful surgeon, but equally famous as a bore of the first rank. Yvonne could not endure him.

Mrs. Desmond and Lydia were there. This was an excellent opportunity to entertain them on an occasion of more or less magnitude.

BRONCHIAL GOLD

Yields To Delicious Vinol

Philadelphia, Pa.—Last Fall I was troubled with a very severe bronchial cold, headaches, backache, and sick to my stomach. I was so bad I became alarmed and tried several medicines, also a doctor, but did not get any relief. A friend asked me to try Vinol and it brought the relief which I craved, so now I am enjoying perfect health.—Jack C. Singleton.

We guarantee Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis.—Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis., and at leading drug stores everywhere.

There is earnest conversation an aggressive politician endeavored to enter the room, but an alert secretary politely interrupted, stating that they were in there," asked the politician, inquisitively. This pertinent question nettled the secretary and he answered tersely: "Holding a mass-meeting, I presume."

Patrick Harrigan had never had the advantage of education, but like most men in similar circumstances, he was determined that his children should acquire the learning and grace which had been denied him. In due time his daughter, Molly, entered college. One day shortly afterward he asked: "An' phwat are ye learnin' now, Molly?" "Today," said Molly, thinking to have a bit of fun with Patrick, "we studied the law of compensation." "Compensation? What's that?" "It is hard to explain, but it's something like this: If your sense of smell is poor, the sense of taste is all the sharper; and if you are blind, you can hear all the better." Patrick reflected. "Sure," said he, "I see. It's like this: For example, if a man is born with a leg shorter than the other, the other is longer."

Strongest Timber.

Carnot and Wolfe Tone. Carnot, at the time he was visited by Wolfe Tone, the Irish patriot, was one of the five "directors" who governed the abortive "invasion of England" he was proscribed and fled to Germany, but returned, and later on became minister of war, which office he held but a short time on account of his antagonism to Napoleon.

Grateful Mothers Tell Experiences

Mrs. T. Neureuter, Eau Claire, Wis., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar Compound cured my boy of a very severe attack of croup after other remedies had failed. Our milkman cured his children of whooping cough. I recommend it to every one, as we know from our own experience that it is a wonderful remedy for coughs, colds, croup, and whooping cough."

Mrs. D. Glickson, Youngstown, O., writes: "My little girl had a severe cold and coughed almost continuously. I tried lots of cough remedies, but she didn't get any better. My sister recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound to me. The first dose I gave her relieved the inflammation in her throat, and after using one bottle the cough left her."

This sterling old remedy has been in use for years and is just as efficient for adults as for children. It gives relief for irritated and tickling throat, tight and sore chest, croup and bronchial coughs.

TRY THIS! DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR AND STOPS IT FALLING OUT.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug-gist or toilet counter, and just try it.
